AMENDMENTS TO THE CLAIMS

1. (currently amended) An image unlocking jewelry device comprising:

a casing having a base and a periphery upwardly extending from said base forming an interior cavity;

a lens mated to said casing and housing a light emitting diode liquid crystal display therein, said liquid crystal display operable to alternate between a transparent state and an opaque state;

at least one light emitting diode positioned within said casing; circuitry disposed within said casing and electrically sending signals to said light emitting diode and said liquid crystal display; and an image mounted between said lens and said circuitry and adjacent said at least one light emitting diode.

- 2. (original) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 1, wherein said casing is made of metal.
- 3. (original) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 1, wherein said lens is made of material selected from the group consisting of a magnifying piece of glass, a mirror cover and a scratch-resistant material.
- 4. (canceled)
- 5. (original) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 1, further comprising a transceiver disposed within said casing and sandwiched between said image and a battery.

- 6. (original) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 1, wherein said casing has a plurality of buttons capable of being depressed and being detected by said circuitry.
- 7. (currently amended) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 6, wherein each of said plurality of button's is capable of having a different sequence programmed therein.
- 8. (original) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 1, wherein said jewelry device sends a signal to at least one companion device.
- 9. (original) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 1, wherein said image has a security password.
- 10. (original) The image unlocking jewelry device as recited in claim 1, wherein said jewelry device is coupled to a jewelry attachment selected from a group consisting of a necklace loop, a ring, a wrist band, an earring fastener and a pen adornment.